Delaware became the first of the United States on December 7, 1787. The second state, Pennsylvania, became a state five days later on December 12, 1787. The last two states admitted were Alaska, January 3, 1959, and Hawaii, August 21, 1959.

The smallest state in the U.S. is Rhode Island. It is approximately 1,200 square miles. Alaska is the largest state. It is about 572,000 square miles.

The population of the states varies a great deal. Based on 2002 estimates, California is the most heavily populated state with 35,116,033 residents. Wyoming is the least with an estimated 498,703 residents.
